Investing in the right small caps at the right time can make a big impact to your portfolio

Key features

Potential to scale up

Small cap companies tend to have a high growth potential to scale their businesses.

Unique investment opportunities

Within small cap segment there are enough companies which operate in industries/businesses where large cap and mid cap companies have negligible presence, giving investors the opportunity to top-up their existing investment portfolios with potential long-term wealth creators.

High rewards potential, usually balances the high-risk profile

Small cap companies are generally perceived to be risky. However, a portfolio of well-researched small cap stocks, selectively identified, can potentially be better wealth creator over the long-term.

Presenting Invesco India Smallcap Fund

Invesco India Smallcap Fund seeks to predominantly invest in stocks of small cap companies that:

- Demonstrate potential of high growth and are available at attractive valuations.
- Have distinct competitive advantages, which along with a virtuous cycle of growth in the market, can transform into meaningfully large companies over time.
- Are high quality businesses, characterized by high return on capital, ability to generate free cash flow, significant growth potential and capable management.
- Besides, with stock selection as our core competency, we lean heavily on our proprietary investment framework in managing the risk/return profile of the portfolio.
